PREFACE

This guide provides information to potential CIVMAR candidates about compiling and submitting their application package for promotion consideration. Instructions are provided on how to fill out the MSC Promotion Application form as well as comprehensive recommended guidelines on how to assemble and what to submit in the promotion package.

Read the Promotion Opportunity Announcement (POA) carefully. Submit an application package for each POA and submit your application package on time. Remember, your promotion application package represents your “first impression” to the evaluation board members. To earn the highest rating possible, it is the personal responsibility of the candidate to submit detailed information with their application such as: resume, knowledge, skills and abilities, ship assignments, evaluations, etc. By spending the time to make your application accurate, thorough, and complete, you will be one step closer to a promotion.

The open POAs, Promotion Application Form and this guide are available at civmar.sealiftcommand.com.

The Veterans Employment Opportunity Act (VEOA) is applicable to MSC Merit Promotions. The VEOA is a competitive service appointing authority that allows veterans to apply to announcements that are only open to so called “status” candidates, which means “current competitive service employees.” To be eligible for a VEOA appointment, your latest discharge must be issued under honorable conditions (this means an honorable or general discharge), AND you must be either:

- a preference eligible (defined in title 5 U.S.C. 2108(3)), OR
- a veteran who substantially completed 3 or more years of active service.

As VEOA eligible you are not subject to geographic area of consideration limitations. When applying under VEOA, you must rate and rank among the best qualified when compared to current employee applicants in order to be considered for appointment. Your veterans’ preference does not apply to internal agency actions such as promotions, transfers, reassignments and reinstatements. Current or former Federal employees meeting VEOA eligibility can apply. However, current employees applying under VEOA are subject to time-in-grade restrictions like any other General Schedule employee. “Active Service” under VEOA means active duty in a uniformed service and includes full-time training duty, annual training duty, full-time National Guard duty, and attendance, while in the active service, at a school designated as a service school by law or by the Secretary concerned. “Preference eligible” under VEOA includes those family members entitled to derived preference. You must provide acceptable documentation of your preference or appointment eligibility. The member 4 copy of your DD214, is preferable. If claiming 10 point preference, you will need to submit a Standard Form SF-15.

MSC exists to support the joint warfighter across the full spectrum of military operations. MSC provides on-time logistics, strategic sealift, as well as specialized missions anywhere in the world, in contested or uncontested environments. As always, the Marine Employment Division staff is willing, ready, and able to assist. Please contact us if you need further assistance via email at MSC_POAInbox@us.navy.mil.

MILITARY SEALIFT COMMAND IS AN EQUAL OPPORTUNITY EMPLOYER. All applicants meeting minimum qualifications will receive consideration without regard to age, race, sex, color, religion, national origin, lawful political affiliation, marital status, non-disqualifying disability, sexual orientation, ethnicity, or other personal condition unrelated to the applicant’s ability to perform satisfactorily. Please visit www.msc.navy.mil/policy/eo/ for more information. The agency provides reasonable accommodation to applicants with disabilities, where appropriate. Determinations of whether an accommodation is appropriate shall be made by the agency as soon as practicable, after the initial application process and shall be made with regard to all applicable statuses and regulations.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS

READ and interpret a Promotion Opportunity Announcement (POA) to recognize what the promotion board is looking for.

WRITE your qualifications on paper to demonstrate that you have the education and/or experience necessary to do the job. If you have a problem with reading and writing, you may want to consider additional schooling while you are on vacation or asking a friend to assist you. Your related experience to each evaluation criteria should be addressed within your resume as well as direct Evaluation Criteria responses.

ADDITIONAL DOCUMENTS: EVALUATION CRITERIA

GENERAL EVALUATION CRITERIA INFO

In addition to your resume, it is highly recommended you supplement your application with responses that directly address the Evaluation Criteria in the Promotion Opportunity Announcement (POA) as well. These statements should clearly and concisely express your qualifications, achievements, and detailed examples of your knowledge, skills and abilities

Language included in the evaluation criteria may include “Knowledge”, “Skills” and “Abilities”. Below is a guide to how you might address these differing levels of understanding in your responses when those words are used:

KNOWLEDGE: Refers to an organized body of information, usually of a factual or procedural nature, which, if applied, makes adequate performance of the job possible. Knowledge gained with experience can play a part here.

SKILLS: Refers to the proficient manual, verbal, or mental manipulation of data or things. Skills can be readily measured by a qualitative or quantitative performance test, usually within an established time limit. Examples of proficient manipulation of things are skills in typing or skills in operating a lathe or a fork truck, etc. Examples of proficient manipulation of data would be skilled at math using decimals, skill in ordering supplies or paint for the paint locker, or skill at celestial navigation. An example of using verbal skills could be how you communicate over the phone.

ABILITIES: Refers to the power to perform an observable activity. This means that abilities have been proven through activities or behaviors that are similar to those required on the job. For example, ability to plan and organize work, ability to repair a winch or paint a bulkhead. Abilities are different from aptitudes. Aptitudes are only the potential for performing the activity.

If one of the Evaluation Criteria on the promotion announcement is the “ability to communicate, both in writing and orally”, here is how it might work in application:

- Describe the kinds of documents you have written: “I wrote a report on the condition of the storeroom shelves and how I thought they could be improved.”
- Describe the types of reviews to which they have been subject: “This document was reviewed by my immediate supervisor and my department head.”
- Describe the target audience: “The chief engineer used it to put together a Voyage Repair report and got it in the shipyard package for bidding.” If appropriate, add icing to your cake by noting the outcome of your efforts.
- Describe the results of your activity: “The old shelves were removed and new ones were installed. The storage space was increased by 20 percent and lightweight battens were installed – significantly upgrading the safety of the storeroom.”

WHY YOU CAN'T IGNORE THEM

Evaluation Criteria provide an objective, fair system of dealing with a large number of applications. Some applicants aren't sure whether the evaluation criteria apply to them or if a response is optional.

If you ever have any doubts about whether it's worth the extra effort, wipe them out of your mind. You cannot be forced to submit responses to the evaluation criteria but ... there's a good chance that your competition will be submitting them! You are at a disadvantage if you choose not to make the effort. One purpose of evaluation criteria is to measure those qualities that will set one candidate apart from the others. To do this, there must be a response that can be scored, something to compare against the crediting plan. Provide examples of what you have actually done, how, when, and where!

Please reference the examples on the following pages and carefully follow the instructions to ensure that your evaluation criteria are complete when they reach the MSC Marine Employment Division for review.

GET STARTED

Like your application package as a whole, the evaluation criteria process requires two skills: reading and writing.

THE READING PART

Depending on the job being advertised, evaluation criteria responses may range from three or more short phrases, to a page or more of detailed requirements, broken into subcategories with rating points assigned. Remember, all responses to evaluation criteria must in some way relate to your job. If you did something ashore that is worthwhile and helps you in your job, you should include it. If it doesn't have anything to do with your job, do not list it.

On the surface, it would seem like addressing evaluation criteria would be pretty clear cut: You read a promotion announcement that identifies the required experience and/or education you need to have to do the job; you write a paragraph that shows you have it. But the evaluation criteria might just be: "The ability to read and interpret written instructions, regulations, guidelines, etc." or "The ability to communicate both orally and in writing." It seems like anybody who can program a microwave oven or call out for a pizza would qualify. The key to evaluation criteria is figuring out how they apply to the job you are seeking promotion for and what experiences you can write to show you meet or exceed the requirement.

THE WRITING PART

Reviewers (most often known as evaluation board members) are not allowed to infer any experience not specifically stated by you on your resume or evaluation criteria responses or use personal knowledge about you. This is to remove favoritism from the process. You have to sell yourself to someone who may not know you at all. To make sure your statements are as specific and complete as possible, pretend that whoever is reading your application doesn't know anything about you, your job, or the promotion for which you are applying. This will not be the case, of course, but remembering this can help you present yourself clearly and completely.

WHAT TO INCLUDE

- Restate the objective of the Evaluation Criteria
- What you actually did and when (approximate dates)
- The outcome
- The name of the verifying official, if applicable (we know you are at sea and work for different people on different ships).

Avoid using unfamiliar acronyms to describe your courses, programs, systems, and:

- Be specific
- Be precise. Get to the point. Don't ramble.
- Use examples. State specifically what you have done.
- Don't try to bluff the reviewer with words
- Don't borrow language from the description of duties

ADDITIONAL DOCUMENTS: EVALUATION CRITERIA

Once you've written your evaluation criteria, go back and look for possible holes. Fix them! Promotion announcements will specifically ask that you look at training and education related to your job as well as awards, self-development activities, and anything else in your background that relates to the evaluation criteria.

Suppose you maintained a website for your poetry for several years. Use this as evidence of your ability not only to communicate in writing but also to schedule work and meet deadlines on poetry contests. Suppose you organized a visit to the local orphanage to make repairs to the building. Cite this to demonstrate your ability to plan, organize, and coordinate. Suppose, as mate on watch, you engaged in a disagreement over pier parking spaces with the local constabulary. This can underscore both your abilities to communicate effectively in public and to function under pressure. All the odds and ends of your life that don't have a place in a traditional or structured application form can be included in your evaluation criteria responses ... if they are pertinent.

Remember that it's very important to be specific. Include concrete examples, give dates, and provide details about your audience and the results of your efforts. At the same time, maintain some level of restraint. Don't let things edge into overkill by citing a long series of achievements when two or three solid accomplishments will do. If you have adequate on-the-job examples that document your skills, don't include non-professional or more trivial experience. Illustrate your ability at the higher levels. If you've been in charge of drafting your department's M & R request for the past few trips, say that. Don't include your household budget management if it says nothing more about your abilities.

What if you simply don't have the work experience, education, knowledge, skill, or ability that is required for the job? Obviously, you could be at a disadvantage when competing against more broadly qualified candidates, but that doesn't necessarily mean you shouldn't apply. Don't ignore the evaluation criteria; a reviewer might think you overlooked it and assume you're not very thorough in your work. On the other hand, saying you don't know anything won't win you any points either. While you'll never get away with creating something out of thin air, you should make maximum use of any related experience and training. This may be a good time to look outside of your professional work history for other experience. Are they looking for the ability to organize and administer a project? How about your experience contracting for construction of the new addition to your house? Respond to the evaluation criteria by emphasizing the similarities between what you can do and what the job duties require. Provide examples to demonstrate your potential for acquiring the required skills.

#1. KNOWLEDGE OF POLICIES/PROCEDURES AND EXPERIENCE IN MATERIAL SUPPORT OPERATIONS. (THIS INCLUDES FILES/RECORDS MAINTENANCE, MATERIAL IDENTIFICATION, SOURCING, MATERIAL PROCUREMENT, MATERIAL STOWAGE, MATERIAL EXPENDITURE, MATERIAL IN-TRANSIT, AND HAZARDOUS/SPECIAL MATERIAL.)

I have extensive experience working as the cargo hold supervisor. This experience has provided me the opportunity to gain an in-depth knowledge of Material Support Operations policies and procedures. I have supervised the shipping/receiving and the expeditious breakout, issue palletization, netting, and pre-staging of dry provisions and ship's store items transferred to the battle group. I have been responsible for the identification of appropriate Hazardous/Special Material storage locations, and the receipt and safeguarding of this material.

In my most recent sea duty aboard the USNS Supply, I aggressively tackled the Master Record File (MRF) and Requisition (RQN) File Maintenance eliminating all discrepancies. My efforts in this area are well documented in my most recent evaluation.

In addition to the experience gained during my employment at MSC, I also have eight years experience in the United States Navy working as a Stock Control Supervisor, supervising the daily operations of six stock control personnel. While in this position, I gained a thorough knowledge of Navy Material Support Operations and leadership experience. In each Navy Fitness Report (FIT-REP) I received as a Stock Control Supervisor my performance was rated as OUTSTANDING. These FIT-REPs are included in this promotion application package, and provide a detailed description of my responsibilities and accomplishments.

FINISHING TOUCHES AND GENTLE REMINDERS

Your final step is to pull together all available information about yourself and begin to build your package. This begins with your MSC Promotion Application, your resume, your responses to evaluation criteria, Summary of Ship Assignments, job-related training, job-related honors, awards, and special accomplishments, the last five years of Evaluations (even from other agencies or companies), DD214 (prior service members), and anything else you want a promotion board official to see. Just remember the 35-page limit (excluding evaluations).

Some applicants seem to think they'll be evaluated on the basis of a snazzy presentation instead of their qualifications. They spend so much time making their application look good that they forget to provide the information that's required. Follow the instructions in the POA to ensure your package is thorough and complete.

The information submitted in your package will be compared to a crediting plan used to "grade" your overall application. From your point of view, the crediting plan is one of the most reassuring aspects of the whole rating process because it represents an objective yardstick for evaluating and ranking individual candidates. It removes any favoritism from the promotion process.

As an applicant, you are not permitted to see the crediting plan. (It's similar to giving away the answers the night before the final exam.) You might picture the crediting plan as a rating scorecard with maximum points for each level of performance. The internal Merit Promotion Program uses three levels: Superior Level, Satisfactory Level, and Acceptable Level. The crediting plan provides a general definition of the performance levels and lays out task examples that can be referred to while evaluating an applicant.

For each level, the crediting plan provides examples of tasks that demonstrate the degree of ability. Information provided in your application are matched as closely as possible to one of the examples to determine the appropriate level of ability and, thus, the number of points to award. How well you show that you match the position's defined knowledge, skills, and abilities will determine whether you will be considered Best Qualified, Qualified, or Not Qualified for the promotion.

Your application package is the evaluation board official's first impression of you. You want to make it look like a winner. Just to cover all the bases, remember to sign and date every application you submit. Lastly, re-review your package before submitting.

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. CAN I HAND-DELIVER MY APPLICATION AND HOW WILL I BE NOTIFIED OF MY STATUS?

Yes, you may hand carry applications to the Marine Employment Division. The address is listed in the POA. You may also send your package via email to MSC_POAInbox@us.navy.mil or mail it to the address listed in the POA.

You will be notified of your eligibility status via letter or email.

2. HOW DO I GET INFORMATION ON TRAINING CLASSES, WORK EXPERIENCE, AND/OR EDUCATION APPLICABLE TO THE POSITION I'M APPLYING FOR?

Your Marine Placement Specialist within the CIVMAR Placement Division (N123), CIVMAR Workforce Development Division (N122), or your Shipboard Supervisor can advise you on what training classes are applicable to the position you're applying for.

Required work experience and/or education are always listed in the POA and located under the Evaluation Criteria section.

3. CAN I USE NAVY YARD OR MILITARY EXPERIENCE IN MY PACKAGE?

Yes. You should reference all experience that is relevant to the position you're applying for.

4. WHO CAN I CALL IN THE MARINE EMPLOYMENT DIVISION TO ASK ABOUT MY PACKAGE?

How do I contact the Employment Division for additional information regarding my score? Will anybody explain my weaknesses?

You may contact the Marine Employment Division via email at MSC_POAInbox@us.navy.mil. The HR Specialist will be happy to discuss your individual package including scores and weaknesses. You may also schedule a face-to-face meeting if you prefer.

5. I DID NOT RECEIVE AN ACKNOWLEDGEMENT RECEIPT FOR MY PACKAGE THAT I SUBMITTED. WHY?

Recent ship assignment changes, ship connectivity issues and invalid email or mailing addresses may affect your receipt of an acknowledgement. Contact us if you have not received correspondence from us at least one week after sending your application.

6. AS A NEW HIRE, CAN I APPLY THROUGH INTERNAL MERIT PROMOTION?

Yes, as long as you have permanent employment status.

7. IF I HAVE LOTS OF INFORMATION TO SUBMIT, HOW MUCH SHOULD BE CONDENSED?

You should submit all pertinent and relative information, such as: specialized experience, all awards, education (diploma) and training certificates that relate to the specific job you're applying for. Copies of evaluations should also be included. We recommend you include written responses to the evaluation criteria listed in the POA within your resume.

8. CAN I HAVE MY EVALUATION CRITERIA RESPONSES PROFESSIONALLY DONE?

Although there is no restriction in having your promotion package professionally prepared, it is not recommended. You alone know what you personally accomplished and we recommend that you prepare your own package, including writing about your own work experience and/or education.

9. WHO CAN I ASK ABOUT MY PROMOTION? WHY DOES IT TAKE SO LONG TO BE PROMOTED IF YOU ARE ON THE BEST QUALIFIED (BQ) LIST?

You can ask the Marine Employment Division (N11B2) for promotion information. Promotions are based on MSC's manpower requirements with the Selecting Official making selections from the Best Qualified list when vacancies are created. Once you're selected, effecting the actual promotion does not take long; typically, the beginning of the next pay period.

10. I'M LISTED AS BEST QUALIFIED OR QUALIFIED BUT HAVE NOT BEEN PROMOTED. DO I NEED TO SUBMIT A NEW PACKAGE?

Yes. If you have not been promoted before another POA for the same position is open, you will need to re-apply. Only those candidates on the BQ are eligible for permanent promotion consideration. Selections may be based on manpower requirements and clearance of administrative review. Qualified candidates are only eligible for temporary promotions.

11. AM I SUPPOSED TO RECEIVE AN EVALUATION FROM THE SHIP WHEN I DEPART? I DIDN'T RECEIVE EVALUATIONS WHEN I LEFT A SHIP. WHY?

Yes. MSC Notice 12330 reflects when evaluations are to be completed. However, there may be extenuating circumstances or situations that prevented your supervisor from completing it on time. We recommend you remind your supervisor (in advance) of your departure date and collect/maintain all of your evaluations.

12. WHY DO I NEED AN EVALUATION?

Promotion Evaluations given by your supervisor reflect your knowledge, skills, education and experience gained from your assigned shipboard position. They support your promotion package (resume and written responses to your evaluation criteria), reflecting actual first-hand observance of your experience and performance.
